Luther.LegalDesign – Workflow Design

Digitalisation is transforming processes and procedures in companies in an extraordinary way. In light of the requirements resulting from these transformations, legal departments and legal service providers need to find new ways to exchange information and knowledge, and also for collaborating and networking. With Luther.LegalDesign – Workflow, we can provide a proven approach to modelling and designing legal workflows, processes and services.

Using a holistic approach, we combine legal expertise with a proven method of designing and modelling processes or workflows and can work with you to develop efficient processes and services for your company in line with user requirements. We combine business requirements, technology and user experience in a proven manner to create new or improved services.

Our Services:

- Defining and providing a detailed description of the process or workflow to be examined
- Performing a structured analysis of the process or workflow, including its strengths/weaknesses
- Analysing the process with regard to individual legal steps and with regard to the services to be developed
- Developing process models and, where applicable, also prototypes for the purposes of comparing them with the requirements of the problem space
- Refining and shaping the models and prototypes in an iterative process up until reaching the finally agreed process, workflow or service
- Using our digital expertise to compare requirements with technology enablers

The described service components are generally defined in more detail in moderated workshops that are attended by the business areas involved, lawyers from Luther and our digital and process experts. For this purpose, we use a proven basic workflow structure.
